BUILDING PAPER SEAL JOINTS AND CRACKS

Although it is one of the cheapest items in your home construction, building paper is one of the most valuable materials used in the operation.

Building paper seals all the joints, cracks and crevices, and protects the lumber and flooring. It should be applied over the sheathing boards, under the roofing, under the floors, and for flashing around windows unless copper is used for the latter purpose.

A good, strong building paper will not require the use of battens to hold it in place against damage by the wind, which is a distinct advantage.

The right kind of building paper should be used, because after it is once installed it is practically impossible to repair any damages to same. If proper paper is applied, with care, no repairs will be necessary.

If the house is not to be completely insulated, there is the additional advantage of the building paper in that it prevents wind, drafts, moisture and dust from entering the house and the house is more easily heated as well as kept clean.

Place House So Water Drains Away

When you determine the site of your house on your building lot, one of the factors to be considered is the slope of the lot. Water should drain away from the house.

If the lot is flat, this is a simple matter. If foundations are dug to the proper depth and drainage provided for, there will be no subsequent worries.

On a sloping lot care must be exercised to place the house so that water may be diverted away from the house, which may be done by arranging a ridge with a V-shaped gully that will cause the water to flow on either side of the house, or to carry it along in a concrete or tile drain.

It is also wise to see that no dry wells or other drainage units are near enough the house that water, seeping from them, will run against the foundation walls.

The Kitchen Hospitality Center

The kitchen, whether large or small, is at times the center of hospitality—perhaps a midnight raid on the icebox following the theatre, the hockey game or other group recreation, perhaps an old-fashioned taffy-pulling or corn-popping party or if we are younger and gayer, a cocktail party.

For this reason, it is important to have the kitchen decorated as attractively as any other room in the house. And anyway the largest number of hours spent by the homemaker in one working center is spent in the kitchen, and it should by all rights be convenient, attractive and pretty.

KITCHEN WALLS

Kitchen walls should be covered with a washable paper or painted several coats with the best grade of paint so that they may be frequently cleansed. With the steam from cooking and at the sink, a grease film gathers on the walls and ceiling which should be removed often. This may be done by washing the walls with a strong solution of washing soda or by the use of a special powder for cleaning paint obtainable at paint stores.

If the walls are coated with waterproof varnish or shellac following painting, it will help to retain the freshness and intact condition of the painted surfaces.

WIRE CARE.

Where electric conduits come in from the street to the house under ground, they must be of a water-proof type. If moisture is allowed to reach the wires, a short circuit will result with inconvenience to the householder and damage to the lawn.

NOTEWORTHY HOUSE

One of the most noteworthy houses of the year was designed by Gordon Kaufman, Architect. Of greystone concrete tile walls, painted. The use of wood in connection with these concrete walls is particularly fascinating and the delicacy of the detail of the porch rail, which is of iron, contrasts well with the heavier concrete materials.

DEFEATED IDAHO NEW DEALER MAY BE INDEPENDENT

Washington, Aug. 20—(AP)—Senator Pope (D-Idaho), whose defeat in the recent Idaho Democratic primary was a major setback and surprise for the administration, said today he was considering entering the November election as an independent candidate.

The Idaho senator, an ardent supporter of President Roosevelt's program, declared he had received more than a thousand letters and numerous telegrams and telephone calls urging him to run.

He added in an interview that he probably would make up his mind within the next few weeks after consulting with officials here and Democratic leaders in Idaho.

Since returning here, Pope has talked with Secretary Wallace and other top-ranking administration officials.

His intimates said he had been promised support if he runs as an independent, by Wallace, Secretary Ickes and Senator Norris (Ind-Neb.) among others.

Friends of the senator attributed his defeat to participation of Republicans in the Idaho Democratic primary.

Pope received about 39,500 primary votes to 42,500 for Rep. D. W. Worth Clark, the winner, who campaigned as a conservative Democrat.

Because the Roosevelt administration has always polled greater strength in final elections than in primaries in Idaho, Pope supporters contend he would have an excellent chance in a three-cornered election contest with Clark and Donald Callahan, Republican nominee for the senate.

State Ward, Wounded by Aunt, to Recover

Kankakee, Ill., Aug. 20—(AP)—Coroner A. E. Kerger said yesterday he would hold an inquest next Thursday into the circumstances of the fatal shooting, Thursday night, of Miss Martha McGuire, 65, of Chicago, and the critical wounding of her niece, Mrs. Elizabeth Cooke, 42.

The body of Miss McGuire was found in shallow water near the edge of the Kankakee river. Her niece was nearby. The pistol was not recovered.

Police Sgt. Bert White said he believed Miss McGuire shot the other woman and then fired a bullet through her heart, in Bird park. Mrs. Cooke had been taken from the Manteno state hospital, ostensibly for an airing. Attendants at the Kankakee

Conspiracy Charge Against Makers of Corn Cribbs and Silos

Washington, Aug. 20—(AP)—Three Illinois corn crib and silo manufacturers were among seven named yesterday by the Federal Trade Commission as participants in a conspiracy to fix prices unlawfully.

The Illinois respondents to the commission complaint were: the Rowe Manufacturing Company, Galesburg; the Mattson Wire & Manufacturing Company, Joliet, and Joseph M. & J. Wayne Denning, trading as the Illinois Wire & Manufacturing Company also of Joliet.

The commission's complaint alleged the seven companies operated under agreements "for the purpose of unlawfully restricting, monopolizing and eliminating competition in the sale of their products."

Jews Smuggled Into Switzerland A Problem

Berlin, Aug. 20—(AP)—More than 1,000 Austrian Jews, it was estimated today, have been smuggled into Switzerland the past month by modern versions of the scarlet pimpernel and the underground railway.

Three hundred Swiss frontier guards are trying to cope with the problem and all available police in the northern Swiss cantons have been mobilized to help. France reinforced her guards at border points. Germans, too, promised increased vigilance.

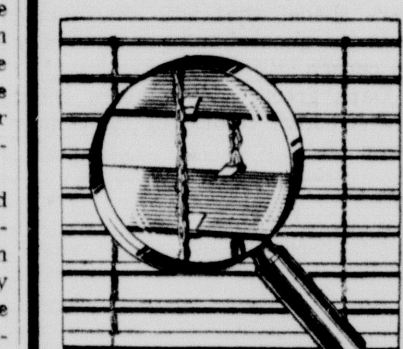

The migration has been helped by a secret organization of Germans and Austrians who, with earlier fugitives, supplied money and shelter for fugitives on the way to the borders, much as Negro slaves were aided secretly to reach the Canadian frontier by the underground railway in American Civil War days and as Frenchmen escaped during the French revolution.

Jews, fearing for their future under the Nazi regime, frequently are willing to take desperate chances to get away. Emigration from Germany has become increasingly difficult as a result of international border regulations and German and foreign laws, despite the expressed Nazi determination that they must go.

The "underground" border traffic is particularly active near the Swiss town of Diepoldsau, whose limits extend five miles along the former Austrian border.

MODERNIZATION

LEAVE OUT UNNECESSARY HOUSE DETAILS

Houses should be built with little ornament. Our ancestors, who lived on the Southern coast of England, the lowlands of Scotland and the villages of Brittany, built their homes as comfortable as they could with the cheapest material available. They had no architects, lumber dealers, contractors or interior decorators to lay down the law to them as to what they could or could not do.

They did as we should do—they built with what was at hand. They did not put a lot of silly giegaws or gingerbread items into their houses; they took the material nearest at hand, used common sense and when the house was completed it was beautiful.

Today we are copying into our homes many of these styles that grew from the commonsense use of native materials.

One of the difficulties that a home owner faces is the elimination of unnecessary details and items in a home. That is one of the reasons why the modern trend is becoming popular in this country—because it is so simple.

It would be best, then, when we build our homes, to think of the simplicity of design and the absolute functional details that enter into its construction.

ROOM DECORATION

Dark colors tend to make a room seem smaller and darker. Lighter colors and slender, tapering proportions are more appropriate for the small room.

A dark ceiling for a room which is too high makes it seem lower and in better proportion.

The exposure of the room usually decides the tone of the finish to be used. Warm tones include yellow, gold, ivory, cream, buff, tan, orange, brown, pink, rose and red—and their various shades. Cool tones are putty gray, blue, green, violet, silver (or aluminum).

If you wish to see the effect of color on size, try making a simple sketch of the room done in various color combinations.

ROOFS

Roofs may be constructed and pitched with gable-end walls, hip-ped or flat, with either overhanging eaves or parapet walls. Pitched and hipped roofs should have a slope of no less than 1:3 unless covered with sheet metal, and the rafters should be covered by standard inch boards. Shingle lath may be used instead of solid boarding for the support of wood shingles and is, in fact, preferable in damp climates where rotting on the underside of the shingles is prevented where ventilation is provided.

WATERPROOFING WALLS

The application of two coats of Portland cement paint to concrete masonry walls has proved to be an effective and durable treatment for waterproofing this type of wall. In instances where repainting and exterior wall treatment costs appear to be excessive, the application of three coats of Portland cement stucco may prove to be the most economical and satisfactory method for maintaining the exterior masonry wall.

THE DINING ROOM FLOOR

If you do not use a rug in the dining room, the finish should be with a few marks and scratches as possible.

If the floor is stained and varnished, a dark tone is preferable. If paint is to be used, any very dark shade that will harmonize with the general color scheme may be chosen.

Dark green, red or terra cotta are effective colors for the dining room.

PIPE NOISES

By extending the water supply 18 inches to two feet beyond the faucet to a dead end, an air chamber is formed which makes an air cushion and prevents water hammering and noises.

OBITUARY

ANNA SOPHIA GRAEHLING

Following an illness of several months duration, the death of Mrs. Anna Sophia Graehling occurred at the Michael Reese hospital in Chicago on Monday, August 15, at 10:15 o'clock. She was taken to the hospital two weeks before her death, with the hope that the care there under the direction of the best medical science would relieve her suffering, but the special care availed nothing, and the end came as stated above, with all the members of her family at her bedside.

Mrs. Graehling was born in Basel, Switzerland on October 8th, 1866, and at eight years of age came to America and located at Sterling, Ill. After her marriage to G. W. Graehling on March 26th, 1890, her home was at Polo and vicinity. This marriage was blessed with six children, all of whom, together with the husband and father, live to mourn her departure. The children are: Mrs. Jesse McCartney of Marengo, Ill.; Mrs. Clara Bedient of Lee Center; Mrs. Ruth Emmert of Nachusa; Miss Violet and Miss Olie, both of Chicago; and Alexander Graehling of Dixon. There are eight grandchildren who survive.

Mrs. Graehling professed her faith in her God by uniting with the Lutheran church early in life, and continued in this faith until her death. This faith found its expression in the life that she lived for her family and for others. Her love for the beautiful added greatly to the joy that she possessed, and her delight seemed to be to gather that which was good from the arts and sciences and from nature, so that she could pass them on to others. All who knew her, especially those of her own family, and immediate friends, will ever cherish her love, her sympathy, and her attitude in everything that tended to make life more beautiful. The counsel of a loving mother, and the kindness of a true friend will be greatly missed.

Funeral services were conducted from the home of her daughter, Mrs. Ruth Emmert, followed with public services at St. Paul's Lutheran church at Dixon, on Thursday, August 18th at 2:00 P. M. In the absence of her pastor, Dr. L. W. Walter, the services were conducted by Rev. P. H. Stahl of Nachusa. Burial was in the Emmert cemetery east of Dixon.

STORE LIGHTING

There is a growing realization among merchants as to the importance and correct use of light as an advertising and sales medium.

An appreciation of the fact that merchandise cannot be shown to the best advantage unless it is brought to the attention of purchasers means that a special understanding of modern adequate lighting and harmonizing fixtures and their adaption to the needs of the store is necessary.

The use of special spotlights and other means of brightening certain sections displaying articles for sale must be studied and utilized.

FAMOUS DIVORCE JUDGE DIED IN RENO LAST EVE

Thomas F. Moran Granted Separation to Thousands

Reno, Nev., Aug. 20.—(AP)—The career of Judge Thomas F. Moran, who ended and started marriage for thousands flocking to this divorce capital, was closed today after 27 years as a jurist.

Unable to recover from a year-long illness, the 74-year-old judge, known as "Barney" throughout Nevada, died last night but a few weeks after announcing his retirement.

In 1935, Judge Moran granted a divorce to Princess Barbara Hutton, the Woolworth heiress, from the late Prince Alexis Mdivani. She is now separated from Count Court Haugwitz-Reventlow, whom she married here the next day.

Other prominent persons awarded divorces by Judge Moran, who had granted as many as 40 uncontested decrees at 10-minute intervals in one day, were:

Jack Dempsey, former world's heavyweight champion, who divorced Estelle Taylor, film actress; John Wamamaker, Jr., Philadelphia capitalist; film actress Ann Harding, Consuelo Vanderbilt Smith, Jennie Marston Adams, now Mrs. Lawrence Tibbett; Edith Gould Wainwright, and Christian Arthur Wellesley, Britain's fourth Earl of Cowley.

Moran spent more than a quarter of a century in Reno's world famous divorce mill as judge of the district court.

In that time he granted thousands of divorce decrees to persons from every state in the United States and from many foreign countries. Not even the judge himself could say how many thousands of marital knots he untied with his standard deep-voiced pronouncement: "Judgement for the plaintiff, granting to the plaintiff a decree of divorce forever dissolving the bonds of matrimony now and heretofore existing between the plaintiff and the defendant."

He estimated, however, that his average in recent years on the bench was approximately 1,500 divorces annually.

The peak was reached in 1931 when, under a new six-week residence law, 4,745 suits were filed in Reno. In that record year Judge Moran granted up to 40 uncontested decrees a day, spacing the trials at 10-minute intervals.

In addition to his fame as a divorce judge, he gained almost as much note in just the opposite capacity. Nearby California's "gin marriage law," requiring a three-day wait between application for and issuance of marriage licenses, made Reno a Gretna Green. In fact more couples were married there than were divorced in the decade following enactment of the California statute and Judge Moran united hundreds of couples annually.

Judge Himself Happily Married.
Born on the west coast of Ireland, June 24, 1868, Moran prided himself on efforts which took him from humble circumstances to a place on the district bench. He attained the dignity of a judge in 1911 when he was appointed to fill an unexpired term in the district court of Washoe county, of which Reno is the seat. For more than 25 consecutive years he held the post, winning re-election to new terms every four years.

The jurist himself was happily married for 29 years. His wife, Mary Lloyd Moran, died in 1934. "We never exchanged a cross word," the judge said. "We were on the same intellectual level and had mutual interests. We never quarreled because we had nothing to quarrel about."

MIRRORS AND WHITE FURNITURE

Some of the older dining rooms were generally dark, gloomy affairs. Today's taste dictates a bright, pleasant room. Why not begin with white woodwork and white upholstery and a large expanse of paneled mirrors on the wall which would contribute the required note of brightness?

SASH CORDS

Where double hung windows are used, it is important that pulley and cord be of a good quality and that the weights properly balance the sash to avoid annoyance and difficulty in raising and lowering the window, and to reduce the cost of maintenance.

ELIZABETH BOY BEST JUDGE OF STOCK AT FAIR

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 20.—(AP)—The grand award of the state fair better babies conference today went to Ward Schenk Curran, three-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Nathaniel Curran of Springfield, whose 100 per cent rating topped the scores of 823 children examined.

He withstood several challenges to take the $20 prize for the highest scoring boy between one and five years of age, while the Governor Horner cup goes to his mother.

Marilyn Jean Frew, three-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander S. Frew of Eagerville, won the sweepstake for girls with a rating of 99.6.

Lynda Lue and Synda Sue, twin daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Byron E. Haines of Taylorville, won first in the class for twins with an average score of 98.9. First prize for a family went to the six children of Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. Norris, Springfield, on an average rating of 98.2.

Harlan Reusch, Elizabeth, Jo Daviess county, won the cup for high individual honors and Rock Island and Hamilton counties divided team honors in the 4-H club livestock judging contest.

O. E. Barnhart of Elgin, four times national roque champion, was eliminated in the matches at the fairgrounds by M. L. Geter of Decatur as the contest swung into the finals.

Approximately 400 dogs took over the coliseum as judging began in the kennel club show. Forty-six different breeds, with cocker spaniels in the majority, were represented on the entry list.

CATHOLICS AND FACISTS HAVE REACHED PACT

Friction Settled at a Conference According to Fascists

Rome, Aug. 20.—(AP)—The fascist party announced today an agreement ending the recently-growing friction between fascism and Catholic Action, lay organization of the Catholic church.

The fascist party bulletin said that at a conference between Achille Starace, fascist party secretary, and Marquess Lamberto Vignoli, president of the Italian Catholic Action's central office, an agreement had been reached "to conform to the accords reached in 1931."

The 1931 accords ended an earlier dispute between fascism and Catholic Action. The settlement that year permitted Catholic action to function in Italy but limited its scope to purely religious and spiritual matters. Catholic Action has been under attack recently by a part of the fascist press.

Pope Pius on July 29 raised his voice against attacks on Catholic Action.

Pope's Protest
"Who injures Catholic Action injures the Pope, and who injures the Pope dies," L'Osservatore Romano, Vatican newspaper, quoted the Pontiff as saying.

The latter phrase was generally interpreted as meaning "dies spiritually."

In the same address the pope was quoted as linking the new fascist race doctrine with Nazi Germany in the following words, "Why in the world Italy unfortunately felt the need to imitate Germany?"

(The following day L'Osservatore Romano's publication of the address, Premier Mussolini replied at Forli with the assertion that on the question of race "we will march straight ahead." To say fascism had "imitated anyone or anything is simply absurd," he added.)

Fascist attacks upon Catholic Action, though bitter in many cases, have been vague, sometimes exceeding its religious times hinting that the organization but seldom giving particulars.

CRITICISM FROM A FRIENDLY NEIGHBOR

A column written by the mining editor of the Toronto Globe and Empire has this to say of the New Deal and all of the so-called "reform" policies for which it stands:

Achievements Nil

"It has been the most colossal spendthrift in history, and without results; it has welshed upon its platform promises of retrenchment; it is squandering the money of the people in partisan propaganda; it has elevated many a political accident to high office, including the Supreme Court; it has badgered and impeded business, big and small; it has held up to public ridicule and hate the producers of material wealth for party purposes; it has built up power by exploitation of the misery of thirteen millions of unemployed, and has accomplished nothing for the latter after five years of glib promise and expenditure of 20 billion; it has sapped the morale of the people by inculcating the idea that the government owes every one a living; it has adopted the policy of scarcity; paying farmers for that which they did not raise, and at the same time spent billions to increase productivity of the soil; it has murdered hundreds of thousands of pigs while human millions cried for sustenance; it has encouraged class hatred by abuse from high place; it has set capital against labor and labor against capital; it has tacitly sanctioned mob expropriation of property, and it has abridged personal freedom guaranteed by the Constitution.

"We are tired to death of pink communism and sick at heart that a great nation, leading the world in initiative and individualism, should have been brought perilously close to its knees by a Pied Piper of the air, fatuously fluting in ragtime.

"Its whole mistaken popularity has been based upon the sob appeal that a third of the nation is ill-fed, ill-clothed and ill-housed and the collateral idea that the national sock is everlastingly stuffed full. No decent man, here or elsewhere, begrudges one penny paid out for the aid and sustenance of those really in want, but the New Deal has squandered billions in deliberate, drunken-sailor prodigality and concealment of facts and intent.

Headed for Ruin

"We believe the richest country the world has known is headed for New Deal catastrophe if a halt be not called at once; that its people, and there are none finer, are being brought down to shameful misery by the most colossal stupidity that political insanity has yet devised for its own self-perpetuating ends."

Such an indictment from our neighbor across the border, who is certainly an impartial onlooker, is worthy of our notice and serious consideration.

MORE SLEIGHT OF HAND

The anti-monopoly bill should be called the "anti-job bill" or the "bill for increasing unemployment." It is not an honest measure. The facts which it proposes to uncover are already well known by the Federal Trade Commission and the Securities Exchange Commission. They are well known to all business men. The investigation is purely political and designed to influence the fall campaign. Prominent business men will be dragged before a drum-head court; headlines will be filled with well-known names; situations and practices that are entirely legal and fully understood will be given a sinister interpretation. The whole purpose is to divert the attention of the people from the mistakes of government and try to make them believe that business is the Old Devil responsible for the depression and the loss of their jobs.

This would not be so serious if it affected the big men of business alone. Abuse has made their hides tough. But the effect will be to cause more upheaval and uncertainty and throw more people out of work. This is a cruel step for the New Deal to take in a time when suffering is already so great. It shows the desperation of the New Dealers. Faced by the failure of their plans, terrified by the threat that the people will punish them at the polls, they call for the brass knuckles and the rubber hose. Business is to be made the goat again.

There are signs that the show will not go so well this time. The customers are growing tired. Ballyhoo is fun for awhile but you can't eat ballyhoo. The middle classes are ready for revolt. The little business man wants business. The unemployed want jobs.

NAPOLEONIC TREASURE

The ship's bell in Lloyds of London, rung once for bad news from the sea, and twice for good, rang two brisk notes the other day and brokers learned that gold had been recovered from the frigate Lutine, at the bottom of the North Sea.

The Lutine sank in 1799, bound from England with two and a half million dollars' worth of gold aboard. The gold was to have gone to the aid of British soldiers fighting Napoleon. Men have been after that gold for nearly a century and a half.

Since the Lutine went to the bottom there have been other treasures accumulating in this world, close at hand, but they might as well have lain with the sunken frigate's gold for all that has been done with them. The treasures of the mind, the gold coin of the thought of more than a century has been piling up, and now—

Respectfully submitted,

On motion of Supervisor Anderson, seconded by Supervisor Mehhausen, County Supt. of Hwys. Leake is to procure an order from the County Clerk directing the County Treasurer to receive said amount and place it in the proper funds.

Answer to Question No. 1

1. Obviously the drivers, since about three-fourths of accidents are where pedestrians walk squarely in front of a machine without giving it time to stop. Another indication that the pedestrians need education as much or more than do drivers is that the vast majority of accidents to pedestrians are caused by their crossing against the lights or in the middle of the block.

Answer to Question No. 2

2. I cannot bring myself to think so, for two reasons. First, the problems that are now in sight but entirely unsolved are well nigh infinite. Second, the physicists show that a large part of nature cannot be explained by the laws of knowledge; that it, the human mind is so made and operates in such a way that it cannot completely understand many things.

3. Lancelot Hogben, a British biologist who knows a lot besides biology, shows that Fascism, Communism and all such totalitarianisms are "retreats from reason" because they do not give that personal development to the free individual that democracy and only democracy can give. He thinks democracy has not been as successful as it could be because we have not had enough of it, especially enough trained public officials for fulfilling the will of the people.

Chicago, Aug. 20.—(AP)—Fifty years ago this morning a lass of 20 summers walked into the office of the Eastern Illinois Railway company and applied for a position as stenographer. She got it and is still on the job.

Looking back over a half century of service, Miss Marie Reynolds recalled today:

"There weren't many girls in offices then and there were no fountain pens and no such things as carbon copies. I made out all my vouchers in long-hand, and you can bet that took a bit of writing."

The railroad presented Miss Reynolds a watch today in appreciation of her long service.

According to estimates, there are nearly 400,000 nurses in the United States.

Dinges-Kellen Marriage Vows are Read at Our Lady of Perpetual Help Church

Baskets of garden flowers marked the aisle of Our Lady of Perpetual Help church at Sublette, down which Miss Velma Dinges walked this morning to meet her bridegroom, Gilbert Kellen. The church altar, before which the Rev. Father Joseph J. Weitekemp celebrated the nuptial mass at 8 o'clock, was screened with Sweet William and baby's breath.

Preceding the single ring ceremony, a program of nuptial music were played by Mrs. Jack Malach, organist. The choir sang.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Dinges of Sublette, walked with her father, who gave her in marriage. She was wearing a princess-style gown of white lace over satin, trimmed with a tiny stand-up collar, and a row of buttons from neckline to waist. Her full skirt ended in a long train, and her long tulle veil was caught to her hair with a halo of lace, trimmed with seed pearls. Her shower bouquet was of white roses and valley lilies.

Miss Dolores Dinges was her sister's maid of honor. Her gown of aqua chiffon, was also designed on princess lines, with a bolero of narrow ruffles. Her head dress was a shoulder-length veil of aqua tulle, held in place by a band of aqua roses. Her sandals and gloves matched the shade of her gown, and she carried Johanna Hill roses.

Billy Dinges, the bride's nephew, was ring bearer. He wore a white linen suit, and carried the ring on a white satin pillow.

Little Miss Eileen Dinges, a niece of the bride, and Marian Dinges, her cousin, served as flower girls. They wore identical frocks of embroidered organdy, with full, ruffled skirts, Eileen choosing peach, and Marian, green. Shoulder-length veils, held in place by tulle ruffles and rosettes, completed their costumes, and carried matching muffs of tulle and flowers.

The bridesmaids were the Misses Cleo Nelson of Chicago and Dorothy Barr of Carroll, Iowa, cousins of the bride, and Miss Margaret Kellen of Amboy, the bridegroom's sister. They were garbed alike in princess chiffon gowns of pale pink, rose with orchid trim, and yellow, respectively. Each carried a large bouquet of mixed flowers, and wore matching tulle shoulder-length veils, caught by bands of roses.

Nikolas Kellen, Jr., served his brother as best man. Robert Leake of Amboy and George Theis, Jr., of West Brooklyn, were bridesmaids, and Darrell Reichensperger and Cletus Henkel were church ushers.

Mrs. Dinges, the bride's mother, chose a pink mirror lace dress with white accessories for her daughter's wedding. Mrs. Nicholas

Kellen of Amboy, the bridegroom's mother, wore navy blue with blue accessories. Mixed flowers formed their corsage bouquets.

A reception at the home of the bride's parents followed the service. The wedding dinner was served to 75 guests at 12 o'clock. The bride's chosen colors were emphasized on the table, lighted by white tapers in silver holders. The centerpiece was a mirror plaque, reflecting two ornamental swans, filled with ivy. A large three-tier wedding cake was served with the dessert course. Assisting with the serving were the Misses Rita Kuebel, Ruth Theis, Dorothy Dinges, Bertha Ackland, Mildred McCoy and Lucille Glazer.

Later in the afternoon, Mr. Kellen and his bride left on a week's wedding trip through the south. Mrs. Kellen is traveling in a frock of black and white alpaca crepe, and harmonizing accessories.

Two Women Victims of Crossing Crash

Lincoln, Ill., Aug. 20.—(AP)—Two Bloomington, Ill., women were instantly killed early today when their automobile was struck by a northbound fast Alton mail train at a crossing here.

Coroner E. C. Goff said the women had been identified as Mrs. Mary E. Welch, 44, and a Mrs. Campbell, 25, and that they were returning home from the state fair at Springfield.

Witnesses said the women waited for a southbound freight to move past the crossing and then pulled onto the tracks in front of the mail train.

The car was virtually cut in two as the pilot was torn from the locomotive, resulting in a delay of about two hours while another engine came to pick up the stalled train.

Goff said an inquest would be held next week.

He had been held at the Hotel Metropole in Vienna, Gestapo headquarters, where the former Austrian Chancellor Kurt Schuschnigg also was believed held.

Although British spokesmen said they understood Captain Kendrick would leave Vienna for England tomorrow or Monday, they declared the nature of the accusation against him had not been communicated to the British government.

Kendrick was passport officer in Vienna for 13 years and had been called upon to grant hundreds of British visas for Jewish refugees since the annexation of Austria by Germany.

He and Mrs. Kendrick were en route to England by automobile when he was arrested and taken back to Vienna Wednesday.

New York, Aug. 20.—(AP)—

Howard Hughes landed at Floyd Bennett airport at 6:56 A. M.

C. S. T., today after a high-altitude flight from Los Angeles, undertaken to test a new type oxygen mask.

His elapsed time for the trip, on which he did not attempt to set a speed mark, was 10 hours and 34 minutes. He set a transcontinental record of seven hours, 28 minutes and 25 seconds in January, 1937.

Glenn Odekirk, Hughes' airplane company superintendent; Harry Connor, chief navigator on Hughes' round-the-world flight; and Charles Perrine, radio expert, were with the wealthy sportsman and former film producer. All wore two-ounce gum and rubber masks.

Hughes flew the same ship in which he made his record-breaking globe-circling flight last month. He has been working for some time on a lightweight oxygen mask similar to that developed by Dr. Richard Lovelace, Mayo Foundation surgeon.

The crew's masks were fed through rubber tubes leading from a single cylinder. The oxygen was thrice purified before

Although Hughes did not set a new transcontinental record, he beat the best previous transport record by almost 30 minutes. He flew at an average altitude of 20,000 feet.

Hughes and his companions said the new type oxygen mask held great possibilities for future flight at extremely high altitudes.

"Ultimately," Hughes said, "transport operations will be conducted at altitudes of around 30,000 feet. Our present equipment and engines will not permit regular flight at that height. The point I want to make is this: That as an airplane leaves sea level the man at the controls becomes less efficient."

"A good oxygen mask, permitting the pilot of the transport to breathe oxygen and the air of the same density as that at sea level is going to do much toward making high altitude flying easy and efficient."

Today in Rochelle

Arthur T. Guest, Reporter

OPENING DATE SET.

The Rochelle elementary schools will open Wednesday, Sept. 7, under essentially the same arrangement for housing as existed last spring.

Announcements concerning the opening date of school have been held up pending definite word on the completion of the new building. It was the desire of school authorities to postpone the opening of school until the new building was ready for occupancy, but recent developments indicate such a procedure would endanger the school program for the entire year.

After conferring with the contractors, engineer, and F. W. A. officials, it appears that it would not be advisable to delay the opening of schools until the new building is completed and accepted. Any other procedure could result in the children having to attend school during all of June and a part of July next year. To meet the requirements for State Aid, all lost school time must be made up in order to maintain a ten month school term.

Every effort is being made to complete the building as quickly as possible, and the children will be moved into the new quarters immediately on completion.

Temporary schedules for school opening and room assignment is as follows:

1. Central school grades 1-6 to parochial school, Wednesday afternoon, September 7, at 12:30 P. M. The above arrangement is the same as last year. Time schedule—12:30 to 4:30.

2. Lincoln (South Side) school. All grades 1 to 6 will report at 9 o'clock Wednesday morning, September 7. Children will then be assigned to rooms and will be given a time schedule somewhat similar to last year's program. Children who will be in the first grade (South Side school) will have a program similar to the Central school, as the Country club will not be used for school purposes.

3. Junior High School—Grades 7-8. Report to Lincoln school 12:30 Wednesday afternoon, September 7. Home Rooms will be assigned at that time. Schedule 12:30 to 4:30.

The above temporary time schedules will be in effect only for a few weeks. As soon as the new building can be occupied all children will be back on a regular time schedule. Additional information will be given in the near future.

The job of constructing a new school without adequate temporary quarters has been very difficult, and the cooperation of all parents is essential for the best interests of our schools.

The Lincoln school classrooms have been redecorated and when the present renovation program is completed the South Side school will be in excellent condition.

The new lighting system installed last year with the addition of new shades has given the Lincoln school a first class lighting situation.

Eighty per cent of the entire faculty has been at school this summer, and others took extension work last winter. The program inaugurated by the Board of Education several years ago, requiring a highly trained staff of teachers acquainted with the current trends in education, assures Rochelle's children of a well balanced and modern school program.

PLOWMANS UPSET BLACK FARMS IN OPENING CONTEST

California Market Club has Close Shave at Hands of Dixon Fruit Co.

Plowmans softball team demonstrated last night that it's a long lane that has no turning when the players rounded the corner and found—if not prosperity—at least a win. The Plowman team has been the doormat of the league without a win since the games began, but last night the page was turned and fate wrote a victory of 3 to 1 over the Black Farms club in the opening game.

The Black Farms team has romped all over several of the league outfields and many out of town clubs, but last night they were out-classed by a percentage in proportion to the score. Plowmans' style was equal to any in the league and only one error was blackmarked against the hard-hitting squad.

The winners started in with a vim in the initial chapter when they tagged for two runs off two hits. Gleason came to bat with one done and was walked. He robbed second and third and scored on a hit through centerfield by Curlee. Curlee sneaked from first to second and from second to third and scored on a play from second to first. Dumphy was walked and took third on Thompson's hit but was called out on a peg from second to home.

Black Farms pulled the laces tighter and held the grocery boys to goose eggs in the hit and run brackets until the sixth inning when Benson, pitching for the farmers, walked four before he was taken out and Anderson stepped to the rubber. Peeks who had taken Walk Number 2 came in on an error by the catcher. With the bases loaded Gleason was forced out at home and Dumphy was caught from pitcher to catcher.

Newcomer, the Plowmans' hurler, took a hit in the seventh, but it was a still-born.

Ledger Was Neater

It can't be said that things looked bad on the Black Farms side of the book—it was only that the Plowmans ledger was neater. The shut out was prevented in the first inning when Gleason who had been walked, scored after a line drive out to center field. Sweeney got a hit in the same inning and Holland error first on the only Plowman error but both expired on the three away when Sauer popped up into the catcher's mitt.

Beyer's single in the second inning failed to land him at the take-off when he went down for the third out on a peg from catcher to second. In the fourth inning Holland and Sauer both got singles but with one out Holland faddled on a peg from first to third and J. Bohlken dropped out on a snapper from third to first.

Beyers landed a neat double out into right field but was caught trying to stretch it into a triple on a swell peg from rightfielder to third baseman.

Benson was on the mound for his farmers for nearly six innings and he struck out six, allowed two hits and walked nine. Anderson, relief pitcher, allowed one hit, walked none and struck out one.

Newcomer, hurling for Plowmans, allowed five hits, walked five and struck out three.

NARROW ESCAPE

It looked like a full evening of upsets when the nightcap game between the California Market and the Dixon Fruit company was a close shave for the Potts boys.

They were saved only by the seventh inning errors of the enemy and were able to take four runs to close the books on the 5 to 3 count.

Until the fumbles of the last inning the Dixon Fruit company was leading three to one and it looked like a bad night for the league leaders. They tasted victory, all right, but they didn't have to get up from the table to get it. It came served on a silver platter of four errors in the last chapter.

How They Did It

In the second inning H. Slain beat out a triple to right field and scored on a double by J. Slain before the next three men went down. In the fourth inning George Carlson took second on a hit and error and scored after a line drive out to right field. H. Slain got another triple out into centerfield in the seventh and scored on a single by J. Grove.

In the third inning for California Market Morris slammed out a triple into right field and scored on a play from pitcher to third to catch Henry for the second out. Kuhn went out to the second baseman.

Boyd's hit in the last inning scored Hasselburg and Morris. Before that Murphy had scored and Ellis came in on an error by the catcher. Both Murphy and Ellis took bases on errors and the Dixon Fruit company's defense went to pieces like a dropped poker chip.

Morris pitched for the Market-eers and allowed 7 hits, struck out two and walked none. H. Slain did the mounding for the Dixon Fruit company and allowed only six hits, struck out nine and walked one.

LEGION INDIANS DEFEAT TIGERS IN WINDUP GAME

The American Legion Junior Baseball league's schedule ended last night with the Indians trimming the Tigers by the count 6 to 0. This makes the Indians undisputed champions of the league with 7 wins, 1 loss and 2 tie games.

As the season winds up, those connected with the league have expressed their satisfaction with the true spirit of sportsmanship shown by those in the league and especially those they have considered to be handicapped with small players.

Next year the manager promises teams which will be more evenly matched and the competition more interesting. New rules will be drafted during the winter to cover everything.

Evansville Boasts Of Nine-Game Lead

Chicago, Aug. 20.—(AP)—Evansville boasted of a nine-game lead in the Three-Eye League today, and Decatur's skidding Combies, who for a time appeared to be the team that might overhaul the pace-setters, found themselves within a half-game of third place.

Evansville added to its advantage last night with a double win over Moline, 7 and 6 and 13 to 1, as Decatur again bowed to Waterloo, this time 8 to 6. Meanwhile, third-place Springfield rode to a 10 to 6 victory over Cedar Rapids on two homers by Piet and another by Criscola and drew within three percentage points of the Combies.

In the other game, Bloomington defeated Clinton, 5 to 2.

The same teams met again today.

The largest valley in the world is the Great Rift of Africa, which begins in the north of Palestine and stretches nearly as far south as Natal, a total of 5000 miles.

FANFARE

TENNIS TOURNAMENT

While the first matches in the city's singles tennis tournament are being played here tomorrow at the high school courts, the Rock River Valley Tennis league's tournament will be played at Rochelle. Vincent Carney is manager of the event.

GAME REDATED

Because of preparations for the Lee County Fair and Horse Show, the novelty game between the Carlson brothers and the California Market has been called off for Sunday night. Tentative arrangements call for the game to be played two weeks from tonight, Saturday, September 3. As far as the Airport is concerned there will be no more softball games until Monday night, August 29.

LASSIES' GAMES

The Walton and Dixon girls will play softball at Reynolds field tomorrow night at five o'clock. This game had been set for the preliminary at the Airport but had to be called because of preparations for the county fair. But the girls found a way out, and will be receiving all callers at the diamond tomorrow. It may be the tea hour, but what the girls are planning to serve has not been revealed.

YESTERDAY'S STARS

H. Slain—Pitching for the Dixon Fruit company last night he allowed the California Market team only six hits, struck out nine and beat out two triples into deep field and scored both times.

Al Boyd—His hit to right field in the last inning drove in two runs to win the game for California Market.

Newcomer—Pitching for the Plowmans team he held the Black Farms to five hits to win, 3 to 1.

THEY'RE OFF

Tomorrow morning, bright and early, the first matches in the city's tennis championship tournament will get under way. The netters have been grooming the past few days for the big event and one prepared for the home stretch which leads to the handsome bronze cup to be awarded to the champion by the Telegraph.

In the first flight Covert meets Rusk; Ward Smith plays Wieman; Sinow has been paired with Ken Smith and Quick will meet Joslyn. The finals will be played a week from tomorrow starting at two o'clock.

PANTHERS' GAMES

The Dixon Panthers will play a doubleheader tomorrow; one game out of town and another at Reynolds field. At 12:30 the club will play the Alcorn Sluggers at Sterling and at 3 o'clock a game is scheduled with the Rochelle club here. The batteries for the first game will be Kupper and Wolford and for the second game, Bevilacqua and Burke. If the Panthers win both games tomorrow it will stretch their winning streak to ten straight games. Manager Zalecki has a hustling ball club and merits the support of the local fans.

SWIM CONTEST

Teams of Boy Scouts from parts of Lee and Ogle counties are competing in the annual district swimming meets at Spring Lake at Rochelle this afternoon. Contests include events in diving, freestyle, backstroke, medley race and American Red Cross life saving. This morning those who were expected to attend from Dixon's Troop 89 included: Lightweights—Ben Gilbert, Lloyd Gilbert, Garth Good, Eustace Shaw, Bob Edous and Dwight Fulmer. Those in the heavyweight class are—Joe Crawford, Bob Sanborn, Jack Feger, Martin Stanford, Bill Moser, Art Handel and Earl Slagle.

Record for Half-Mile Cracked by Britisher

London, Aug. 20.—(AP)—Sydney Wooderson, Great Britain's great middle-distance runner, bettered the world's record today for the half-mile, covering the distance in one minute, 49.2 seconds in a special handicap at London's Hotspring park.

It was announced at the same time that Wooderson had broken the world's 800-meter record en route to the new half-mile mark. Clockers caught the little 26-year-old English bank clerk in 1:44 at the 800-meter mark, about five yards short of the half-mile distance.

HOLE IN HANK'S BAT IS PLUGGED; AIMS AT RECORD

Greenberg's Efforts in Past Weeks Have Been Without Success

By SID FEDER

Associated Press Sports Writer

They've plugged up the hole in Hank Greenberg's bat, and the big fellow is firing at Babe Ruth's record again.

For a couple of weeks there, big Hank might just as well have been batting with a toothpick for all the ground he was picking up in chasing the Babe's all-time mark of 60 homers in one year. His batting average dropped like a rock in a well, and those rosy pictures the boys painted of a new record began to fade.

But in the last two days, the St. Louis Browns' pitchers, those obliging cousins to all aspiring batters, rolled into Detroit and showed Hank the hole in his stick, through which enemy elbow-ers were throwing their special tosses. Hank promptly plugged it up, took a hitch to his cap and busted five choice offerings of the Brownie flingers out of the park in two days, to bring his season four-base total to 41.

Three Came Yesterday.

Three of these round-trip tickets came yesterday as the Tigers clicked for a double-header victory, 7-8 and 7-4, and accounted for eight of the 15 Detroit runs.

The net result of Hank's fireworks was to boost him considerably in front of Ruth's record again. His third of the afternoon yesterday came in the Tigers' 109th game of the season (108th if you omit one tie). Ruth didn't clout his 41st in 1927 until his 123rd game, and had only 36 at his 109th.

Thus, Hank is some five up on the Babe, a margin that may turn the trick if he holds it through Sept. 1 and can continue the cannonading through the final month of the season, as Ruth did with his gaudy 17 in September of '27.

The double win yesterday also boosted the Tigers to within a game of fourth place in the American League standings, since Washington's Senators, current holders of that spot, dropped a 4-3 ten-inning contest to the Boston Red Sox. Jimmy Foxx, that other home-run specialist, whacked his 33rd in that engagement.

Yanks Again.

The league-leading Yankees, however, weren't bothering much about such lowly spots as third and fourth place, for they whipped the Athletics, 5-2, on Spud Chandler's six-hit pitching, to climb ten games in front in the junior circuit race. The second place Cleveland Indians were soundly thumped, 7-2, by the Chicago White Sox.

With the National League leading Pittsburgh Pirates idle, the Giants took advantage of the opportunity to pick up a half-a-game by belting the Phillies, 4-2 on Jimmy Rippe's homer. This left Bill Terry's outfit 4½ games off the pace. Brooklyn's Dodgers ripped the Boston Bees, 1-0, in an 11-inning night tilt in the only other scheduled National League game, to climb into a tie for fifth place. Fred Frankhouse tossed a three-hitter to top the Bees.

It was announced at the same time that Wooderson had broken the world's 800-meter record en route to the new half-mile mark. Clockers caught the little 26-year-old English bank clerk in 1:44 at the 800-meter mark, about five yards short of the half-mile distance.

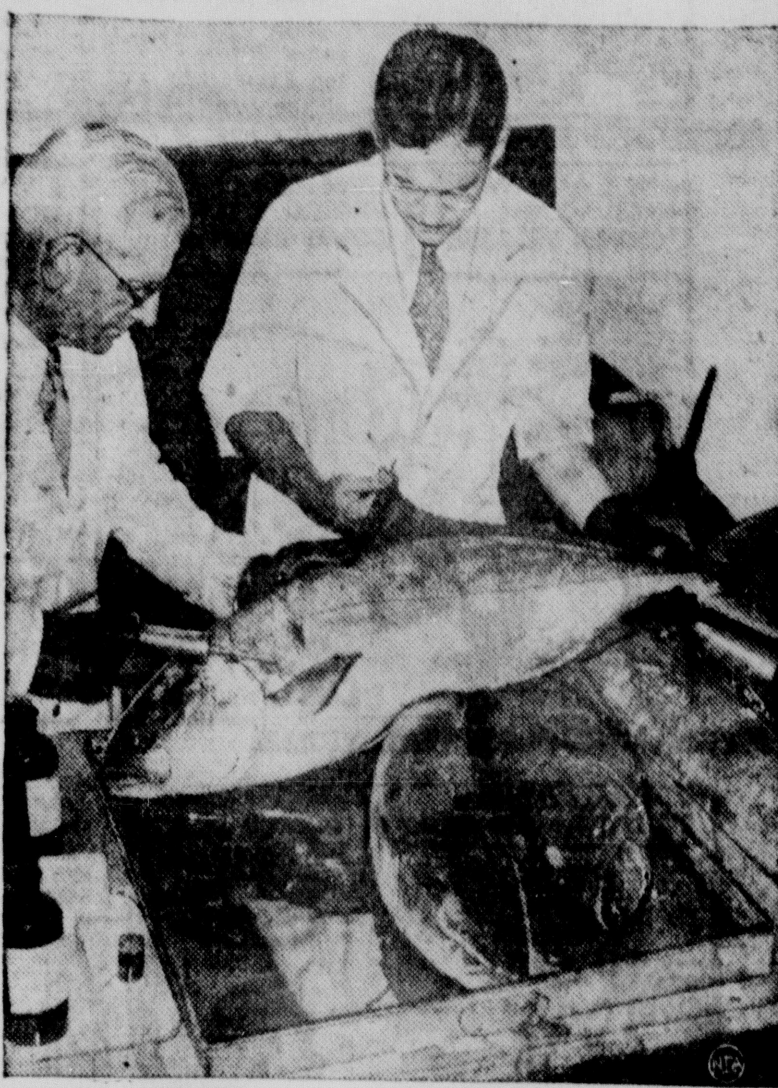

Girl Shoots Self to Escape Return Home

St. Louis, Aug. 20.—(AP)—Sgt. Patrick Fitzgerald said Miss Lilian Kehr, 16, of Bloomington, Ill., shot and wounded herself last night after her father and brother had come here to take her home.

Suffering from a chest injury, the girl was reported in critical condition in city hospital.

Sergeant Fitzgerald said Miss Kehr had been keeping house for her uncle, William Klepper, for about eight months. When her fa-

New York, Aug. 20.—(AP)—Bill Terry may get a bid to go to Hollywood in the fall to star in a baseball picture authored by Francis Wallace of "Kid Galahad" fame. . . . Dr. Jock Sutherland, professor of gynecology at Pitt, will headline the faculty at the U. of Kansas coaching school next week. . . . If Henry Armstrong took a backward step against Lou Ambers the other night, we were scooped. . . . Current toast of Polo Grounds regulars is George Myatt, the fast stepping rook from Jersey City.

Mel Ott of the Giants won the third base post on the breakfast food firm's all-star team and was presented an auto at the home plate yesterday. . . . It was the first gift he has received in 12 years of star baseballing.

Which recalls a remark old Goose Goslin once made. . . . Said Goose: "The only thing I ever received at the plate was a slow ball." . . . Tom Riggs, 217-pound tackle, is having a good look at the country. . . . He captained the Duke football team to Navy and now pops up at Illinois.

Here's a good luck to Arnold Herber of the Green Bay Packers, who opens a men's clothing shop in Depere, Wis., today. . . . Herman Taylor, Philly night promoter, has done a Mike Jacobs and tied up Tony Gaudio for five years.

We'll say Jeffere Cross, star U. of Oklahoma shortstop, joined the pros with a bang. . . . LOOKS LIKE A CINCH FOR DON BUDGE TO WIN

Newport, R. I., Aug. 20.—(AP)—Newport casino tennis officials today were prepared to turn over their handsome bowl trophy to Don Budge, the international champion who won legs on it twice in the last three years and had only to defeat Sydney Wood of New York, in the final today to gain permanent possession.

Budge gained the last round yesterday by romping through Frank Parker of Beverly Hills, Calif., shortly before Wood became a finalist by wearing down the second-seeded John Hunt of Los Angeles, his doubles partner.

Budge also qualified for the doubles final with his Davis Cup teammate, Gene Mako of Los Angeles, as a result of their triumph over Wayne Sabin of Los Angeles, and Elwood Cooke of Portland, Oregon.

Wood, too, has a chance to appear in both of today's final events before he can compete in the doubles climax, he and Hunt must overcome the one-set lead gained over them by Wilmer Allison and John Van Ryn, the Austin, Tex., veterans, during last night's interrupted semi-final.

When darkness drove them from the courts, Allison and Van Ryn led by 13-15, 6-3, 6-2. The match will be completed after Wood competes against Budge this morning.

GRID STAR DROWNED

Chicago.—(AP)—Paul Behn, 23, football player at Drake University, Des Moines, Iowa, drowned in Lake Michigan last night. Coast guardsmen recovered his body after an hour's search. He lived in West Chicago.

ther, William Kehr, and her brother, Ronald, arrived, the girl asked them to wait while she got her clothes. She then went into the basement and shot herself.

Fitzgerald quoted Miss Kehr as saying she wished to remain in St. Louis.

THIS CURIOUS WORLD

By William Ferguson

ANSWER: Tripe is a part of the stomach of any ruminant animal. LIGHT travels about 186,000 miles per second, or something like six trillion miles per year... and this figure is known as a "light year." To reach the outer edge of our present telescope range in 16 years, we would have to travel six trillion miles a second.

OUR BOARDING HOUSE

WITH MAJOR HOOPLE

OUT OUR WAY

By WILLIAMS

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

Washington—There were titters in the press gallery when Vice-President Jack Garner announced the appointment of Senator Morris Sheppard as chairman of the campaign expenditures committee. Some of the boys thought it was a great joke that the gentle, soft-spoken little Texan should be given the tough job of riding herd on electioneering funds.

But the guffaws were unfair to Sheppard. It is true that in manner and personality he is the antithesis of the hard-boiled, whip-cracking prober. But there is nothing soft or weak about him. In his unobtrusive way, Sheppard is one of the most resolute men in Congress.

He has no flair for circus stunts or headlines. No company years in public life has he indulged in hoop-la stuff. Sheppard is not built that way. He works methodically, deliberately, and with unyielding perseverance.

The campaign expenditures committee will produce no pyrotechnics, but neither will it be a carnival of buffoonery or a stench of underhand partisan intrigue and skulduggery. The report Sheppard will make next January will be an honorable and forthright statement of facts—as have been his few informal observations to date.

Mettle of the Man
An evaluation of the true mettle of the man can be found in his stand on the prohibition issue.

Sheppard was first elected to the senate on a prohibition platform. He was the father of the 18th amendment. He believed in it then and he believes in it now. Regularly on the anniversary of the amendment, he rises from his seat in the senate and in his quiet manner defends the dry cause and predicts its eventual triumph.

And his colleagues listen to him with respect and courtesy. They may question his judgment, but not his sincerity.

Former Senator Jim Reed, unrelenting and vitriolic foe of prohibition, once voiced the views of the senate toward Sheppard with this observation: "There are only three men in this chamber who really believe in prohibition. One is Senator Wesley Jones (late of Washington), and the other two are Morris Sheppard."

Up for re-election in 1936, at the high tide of repeal, Sheppard's friends begged him to soft-pedal his dry convictions. But he flatly rejected their pleas.

"I am no hypocrite and I won't be one to save my seat," he said. "I'm dry because I believe in it and not because there are or are not votes in it."

He campaigned the length and breadth of Texas bluntly affirming his adherence to the dry cause—and was re-elected by the largest majority of his career.

Resolute New Dealer
He has demonstrated this same quiet resolve on other equally controversial issues.

Years ago he sponsored the bill that became known as the Sheppard-Towner Act, which provided for federal-state cooperation toward maternity and infant welfare. It was violently assailed as a scheme for bureaucratic meddling in private affairs. Sheppard wrote the measure into law and today it is universally accepted as principle of legitimate government activity.

Despite his ardent dry convictions, Sheppard publicly supported Al Smith in 1928. Prohibitionists bitterly assailed Sheppard but he stood his ground.

"There are other issues at stake in this campaign," he answered, "beside the question of prohibition. In my opinion these great economic and social issues outweigh Mr. Smith's wet views."

With equal staunchness Sheppard has supported President Roosevelt—from the 1932 campaign, when he ran on a repeal platform, to the present day. Because of his unobtrusiveness, few are aware of Sheppard's high score as a New Dealer. Few Congressmen have given the administration more devoted loyalty.

This is all the more remarkable because the Texas delegation on Capitol Hill is not noted for New Deal regularity.

Their fellow Texan, Vice President Garner, has repeatedly been the undercover leader of the opposition to Roosevelt policies.

Today he is the center of a secret movement to wrest away control of the Democratic party and prevent the president from naming his own successor. Sheppard's colleague, Senator "Long-Tom" Connally, who owed his re-election in 1934 to Roosevelt's aid, has warred stridently against a number of the president's pet measures.

In the house, the aged Representative Hutton Summers harpooned the Supreme Court bill at a crucial stage; while in the wage-hour and government reorganization fights only Floor Leader Sam Rayburn and a few others of the large Texas delegation went down the line for the president.

But Sheppard, without fanfare or bombast, has never failed.

Illustrative of his quiet fealty was his action in the close battle for the floor leadership following the death of Senator Joe Robinson last year. At the solicitation of Connally, Sheppard agreed to vote for Senator Pat Harrison. But an hour after publication of the president's "Dear Alben" letter endorsing Senator Barkley for the post, Sheppard went to Harrison and said he could no longer support him.

"I am sorry, Pat," Sheppard said, "but the President's wishes come first with me."

Youthful Dean
Because of his youthful appearance, few know Sheppard's real age or the fact that he is the dean of congress.

Slightly under average height, slender and sprightly, Sheppard is 63 but acts like a man in the early fifties. He has been a member of congress since 1902, when he was elected to the house to fill an unexpired term of his late father, John Levi Sheppard. Sheppard won his senate seat in 1913. Borah has served longer in the senate, Sheppard has served longer in both houses of congress.

His two diversions are golf—which he began playing when the only course in Washington was a three-hole green near the Washington monument—and the classics. His infrequent speeches are filled with references to Aristotle, Pericles, Shakespeare, Milton, Dante, Rousseau, Hugo, Homer and other great leaders of the past.

While an ardent dry and reformer, Sheppard is no kill-joy. He is a kindly gentleman with a lively sense of humor.

At a recent social gathering, Representative Sol Bloom mischievously handed Sheppard a cocktail. Everyone laughed, including Sheppard, who set the drink down. Then he picked up a ham sandwich and offered it to Bloom.

Takes Priest With Him While He Tells Police of Murder

New York, Aug. 20.—(AP)—With a priest at his side, John Bellinger, 33-year-old English-born clerk, entered a police station Friday and confessed the slaying of his sweetheart.

He told an astonished detective that he had shot Miss Marie Joyce, 25-year-old private secretary, through the back of her head with a sawed-off rifle.

He handed a leather briefcase to the detective. Inside was the gun. "I carried it around all evening," said Bellinger.

He thanked the priest, the Rev. Father Joseph H. Sheehan of the Church of St. Pohn the Evangelist, for going with him to the police station, then was taken to Miss Joyce's apartment.

There in the hall, in front of the door to her second-floor apartment, lay the body of Bellinger's sweetheart.

Last night they had dinner together. It started with a couple of cocktails, and a quarrel. Bellinger said he wanted to announce their engagement and Miss Joyce wanted to call their romance quits.

THE CLOUDED MOON

By MAX SALTMARSH

THE CHARACTERS
Hugo Stern, handsome author, living on the French Riviera. Archie Lumsden, myself, Hugo's friend. Rene Geiss, a singularly unpleasant cartoonist.

Yesterday—We trail Geiss to a bathing place where we see an American heiress, Ottilie Wills, who looks just like Eve Monet.

Chapter 12
Another Penny
The girl stood in the doorway, looking down the room. She had stripped off her bathing-cap, losing a mass of curling hair as tawny as a ripe chestnut, and seen the likeness to the dead Eve had lessened considerably.

She came slowly towards the bar, her face thoughtful, her dark eyes remote. It was obvious that something quite other than the immediate question of drinks occupied her mind, but as she halted a yard away from us, and the barman hurried to meet her, a sudden gay and charming smile lit her face. I caught my breath again. The likeness, when it came, was almost painful.

"Grapefruit juice for me, please, Charles," she said. "And rye as usual for Mr. Wills, only go slow with the angostura this time." She paused, hesitating. "Perhaps, on the whole, I'd better mix it myself."

"Very please," Miss Wills, Charles agreed affably, and as he set the bottles on the counter before her the girl rolled up her sleeves in a workmanlike manner. She was no near that the soft, creamy stuff brushed my arm, and I stepped back a pace to make room for her. As I did so, my elbow caught Hugo's wrist, in the act of raising his glass to his lips, and sent the best part of a drink cascading down his shirt.

He gave an angry grunt and whipped out his handkerchief and in doing so he flicked from his pocket something which fell with a tinkle on the floor and rolled straight to the feet of the girl.

She had watched the accident with an amused, impersonal little smile, but as she sighted the small brown object the smile faded, giving way to a look of sheer amazement. She stooped, quick as a flash, and snatched it up. "My lucky cent-piece!" she said. "Now, how in the world did you come to pick it up? I didn't know I had lost it."

"Neither did I," said Hugo dryly. He took a step forward so that they were facing each other, and so tall was she that her eyes were almost on a level, wide, soft, dark ones staring into chilly blue. He held out his hand with an unmistakable request. "Actually," said he, "it's my lucky cent. It was given me only this morning."

The girl looked from him to the little coin lying on her open palm. "I could have sworn there wasn't another cent in the world bored that way, except—"

She paused and caught her breath, and a second her expression changed. The rounded chin hardened, the red lips shut firmly.

"Just a minute," she said. "We'll look into this matter, if you please."

'A Matter of Life and Death'
She snatched up her big beach bag, rummaged in its interior, and drew out a smaller one of white kid. She felt in this and drew out, with a look of surprise that was almost comical, what might have been the very twin of the coin that lay on the counter.

"Well," she said, "isn't that the queerest thing!"

She looked up at Hugo with a shamed smile. "I'm terribly sorry! But you see—there was some excuse. You'd never know them apart, except that mine is a little bit superior. You see, it has my name engraved on it—one letter on each of the Redskin's feathers, but they're so small you want a microscope to see." She picked up one coin, holding it against the light. "Look!" she said. "There it is."

She stopped abruptly, and for an instant stood immovable, her eyes riveted on the coin in her hand. Then slowly she turned to us, and it seemed to me that every tinge of color had been wiped from her face. "Tell me," she said harshly. "This isn't a time for joking. Tell me at once where you got this coin."

Hugo gave her one long, show look, then deliberately picked up the other one-cent piece and examined it.

"Ottilie Wills," he read out slowly, and then half to himself: "Yes, you picked up the wrong coin. They're so alike you didn't know your own." He straightened up and deliberately gave her back the coin he held, taking the other and thrusting it into his own pocket. "This one-cent piece, Miss Wills," he said, and as he spoke his eyes never left her face, "was the property of a young lady named Eve Monet."

She stared at him, her face showing no sign of recognition at the name. "But where did you get it?" she demanded. "Quickly, you've got to tell me! Don't you understand—" her voice quivered and almost broke—"its a matter of life and death."

They were so intently engaged with each other that neither had eyes for anything else, but I was standing facing the door, and in that instant I saw two silhouettes darken the glass. "Careful!" I whispered to Hugo, and he glanced up quickly.

"Miss Wills," he said urgently, "we can't discuss this here. I'll tell you all you want to know about this coin, if you will meet me tomorrow at—" He hesitated. "Say on the beach at Juanes-Pins at midday. Have you a car here?"

She nodded.

He gave a short sigh of relief. "That's fine. May I suggest that you drive yourself and make a slight detour, to insure that you're not being followed? And may I suggest too that you don't mention this matter to your uncle or anyone else? Don't think I'm mad," he added with the ghost of a smile, "but this matter may be more serious than you think."

"I don't think you're mad," she answered very low, her great dark eyes still on his face. "Only I can know how serious this matter may be! Yes, surely, I'll be there. On the board-walk at twelve."

"That's fine!" said Hugo again. He looked over her shoulder; the door was opening and the tall form of Mr. Virgoe Wills filled the aperture, with a smaller, stockier shape close behind him. "Come on, Archie," he said, "we will be going."

Letter From a Lady.
We climbed the stairway, crossed the upper floor, and came out into the road. Hugo had said never a word, but as he started up the engine of the Hispano he turned to me, and his face was very grave. "Archie," he said, "I wish to-morrow's interview was over. Aa-ke a look at that," and he tossed the one-cent piece into my lap. I picked it up and scrutinized it, and there, finely scathed on the Indian's feathers, one letter to each plume, I saw a name. "Melanie Wills," I read out slowly, and turned to him. "Hugo what the devil does this mean?"

"It means," said he, "that to-morrow I must tell that girl that her sister has been foully murdered."

There was a long pause. I had known, in a sense, what he was going to say, but spoken baldly aloud it sounded infinitely more shocking.

"And what of the Eve Monet name?" I asked.

He shook his head wearily. "I can't tell. I can think of a dozen likely explanations. The Wills girls are well known in New York. I heard a lot about them while I was there, though I never met them. The old man is a bachelor and wealthy, even by American standards. These girls are orphans—his brother's children—and he adopted them—legally. I mean, as his co-heiress—and brought 'em up."

We drove back to Cannes in silence. Queer thoughts jostled in my brain; names that I had not insisted like angry bees. Ottilie Wills, Melanie Wills—if Hugo was right, the uncanny likeness was well explained. Rene Geiss, Virgoe Wills; and again that sinister refrain: Venner, the banker, Vladimir Rakovsky, Baron Stahl.

We found a corner table at the Carlton Bar and, while Hugo settled himself and hailed a passing waiter, I went inside to the office after my money was running short and I wanted to cash a traveler's check.

When I told the man at the desk my name he raised his eyebrows. "But, monsieur," said he, "there is a letter for you."

I thanked him, pocketed the letter, and transacted my business, but as I halted in the entry I saw that my place at the table was already filled. Dr. Riquet sat there, talking eagerly to Hugo, and from the intent expression on my friend's face I judged that he was hearing something interesting.

It would be, I felt, injudicious, to say the least, to interrupt them, as I perched myself on the stone balustrade of the ramp and pulled out the letter. It was addressed fully, in a big, flowing hand, to Mr. Archibald Lumsden. I had never seen the writing before, and as I slit the envelope and pulled out the couple of flimsy sheets that it contained, I wondered who in the world my correspondent could be. And then, as I saw the signature at the foot of the page, I stiffened and a queer, prickly chill stole over me. "Eve Monet." The words stared up at me, scrawled in that big, spreading hand, and for an instant it seemed that she was there beside me, a pale phantom, leaning on my shoulder.

"Do you remember me?" she wrote without preamble. "I spoke to you half an hour ago in the Carlton Bar. I am in dreadful trouble. No one to turn to. I beg you to help me. Buy the Grimoire astrologique (L'Amourie is the old name). Look at the page for August. You will see what I mean. August 30th is the day. Warn him if you can. Beg him to go back home. The Club des Sans Clubs meets at the Caves des Muettes or the Chateau la Vague. I dare not write more. You may not get this letter. I am alive tomorrow I will ask for it back. Eve Monet."

The short staccato sentences, the smudged, illegible scrawls, spoke only too plainly of the bitter urgency in which they had been written. It was a cry of despair, but it was also a call for help.

Randolph Co. WPA Projects Resumed

Sparta, Ill., Aug. 20.—(AP)—WPA projects in Randolph county, closed during a 12-day strike, will be "running smoothly" by Monday, George Hamilton of the Sparta WPA office predicted today.

Hamilton said "most" of the striking 900 laborers reported for work yesterday, although no work was resumed. Trucks were unable to complete distribution of tools and equipment collected three days ago.

Workers agreed last Wednesday to return to work after only two of their demands were granted by WPA officials. Their chief request—an increase in wages from $40 to $55 a month—was refused.
